'Let's get on with it'

I am pleased to note that our local unions have now agreed to the compressed work schedule and associated rules which were presented to them some weeks ago. Now we can proceed to deal equitably with this issue and, at the same time, continue to meet the stringent demands of our primary testing mission. Over these several weeks, the interest of a good number of our employees was most certainly stimulated by the union position on the subject, judging by the letters published in the Missile Ranger. Now, let's get on with it. See details on page 4

Battery A soldier tops

by Monte Creek

A review board of senior noncommissioned officers selected Sp4 Jeffry A. Kowell as the White Sands Missile Range top soldier for May.

Kowell is assigned to Battery A at WSMR. He works in the range's Nuclear Effects Laboratory as a computer programmer and analyst.

The 29-year-old soldier is the son of Robert E. and Lois M. Kowell of Dix Hills, N.Y. He is a 1975 graduate of Commack High School South in Commack, N.Y. In 1977, he earned his bachelor of arts degree in psychology from Concordia College in Bronxville, N.Y.

Kowell began his Army career two years ago. "I wanted to serve my country. I also felt that by joining the Army I could improve myself physically as well as mentally."

The soldier of the month began his tour at White Sands in January 1985. He said he has enjoyed his assignment. "It's a big change from where I grew up. I like the southwest's weather and terrain," he said.

"It's a big change from where I grew up."

Kowell said he is considering making the Army his career. "I'm planning to apply to Officers Candidate School." Another of his goals is to complete a master's degree in psychology.

Photography, running, weight-lifting and hiking are hobbies the May top soldier enjoys in his spare time.

Kowell and his wife, Darien, have two children, Amy, 4, and Jason, 3. Darien is the daughter of Frank A. and Barbara J. Eckert of Levittown, Penn.

As the Soldier of the Month, Kowell received a certificate of achievement from Maj. Gen. Niles Fulwyler, a three-day pass and various honors from Las Cruces businesses and organizations.

Owens takes post command

Maj. Gen. Joe S. Owens assumed command of White Sands Missile Range Wednesday during a star-studded ceremony at JFK Parade Field. More than a dozen retired and active duty general officers and New Mexico Governor Toney Anaya attended as Owens became the 17th missile range commander.

Owens came to White Sands from Europe where he was Deputy Commanding General, VII Corps, U.S. Army Europe. During the 2 p.m. ceremony Owens accepted the WSMR command from Gen. Richard Thompson, commanding general of the Army Materiel Command.

After accepting the organizational colors, signifying his taking charge, Owens said he was happy to be back in the United States and in New Mexico. He told the crowd he would give his new assignment his best effort. In return, he informed the large audience he expected four things. He said he wants a continuation of professionalism in the workplace. He said that meant knowing your job and doing it well. His second wish was for everyone to be a team player. He said the whole organization is no better than the weakest link. The third point was for everyone to enjoy his or her job. His fourth expectation was for White Sands to continue its close relationships with the surrounding communities.

Maj. Gen. Niles Fulwyler, who assumed command of WSMR in September 1982, bid farewell to a large crowd of civic and military leaders, guests and range employees. Fulwyler told the audience it was "a great day to be a soldier and a great day for an old soldier to say goodbye." He thanked the soldiers, sailors, airmen, marines and the range workforce of civilians and contractors for their support and "splendid professionalism." He also thanked the community leaders for their support during his command at White Sands.

Fulwyler is retiring after 34 years of Army service. After Fulwyler passed the command to Owens, he was recognized for his exceptional career. Thompson presented him with the Defense Distinguished Service Medal from the Department of Defense and the

Letters to the editor:Thanks, two complaints

Editor:

I am taking this opportunity to thank all personnel from Installation Support for their outstanding support they have provided us during the past year in obtaining critical automotive spare parts and materials. This unit has achieved a two day average turn around time frame in providing scarce and often hard to find parts. This outstanding support had never been accomplished before under other logistics or COPARS policies previously employed during our 10 years of doing business with this unit.

This outstanding support has been accomplished in a cordial, professional and business like manner, despite CA reviews, possibility of contracting out, and other restrictions placed on this unit. Support often goes unnoticed; however, I assure you it is recognized and appreciated by the commander and members of this command. Again I wish to thank you for a job well done.

Why print it?

Editor:

I address this letter primarily to you. Why do you allow, to be published, letters in which "NAME WITHHELD BY REQUEST" appears? If a person does not have the conviction to sign what he writes, why should the rest of us have to see it in writing?

The anonymous letter of May 23, in which the WSMR Director of Resource Management was slandered, by position, is out of line for an organization the stature of WSMR. The individual who wrote such trash is obviously misinformed, lacks good taste and should not have been allowed to have his "feelings" printed in "our" newspaper.

The second letter, written by a Mr. Mark D. Sevachko is another jewel. Jumping from subject to subject with his words of wisdom, this letter goes on and on but says little. This type of material should not have found its way into "our" newspaper. Mr. Sevachko obviously lives in a vacuum and does not understand the problems facing WSMR because of the Gramm-Rudman cuts. The reason for our payday change is that we (WSMR) must cut our costs in order to be able to pay our fixed payroll costs. If the Finance and Accounting Office has a problem in processing or our computer people experience down time, then we must work overtime so that your payday is not missed. Overtime is additional cost which we cannot afford.

At WSMR, we have enjoyed so called "early paydays" for years. Most major subordinate commands have always paid on the 2nd Thursday. It is now our turn to do so. Let's stop the belly aching and pull together as one team, cut our costs as we are trying to do, and keep WSMR number one.

One final note to Mr. Sevachko -- The Finance and Accounting people who you so absurdly chastized, are good, hard-working people. They take their work seriously, they are devoted to their jobs and far exceed the standards that have been published. You have never missed a payday here at WSMR -- have you?

Also to the editor -- I suggest that we review what we print and exclude from "our" newspaper the letters like you have recently let be printed about the union, and our operating elements. This type of trash does not help the image of WSMR.

PAO answers

The policy of withholding a letter writer's name on request is standard practice throughout the newspaper community, to include military papers. The principle behind this procedure is to protect the writer from retribution and thus promote free expression of opinions.

As to the content of the letter, one person's trash is another's treasured opinion. The decision of where to draw the line on publication of letters is always subjective and usually difficult. This is my responsibility and I have yet to please everyone. Please remember the "our" you applied to the Ranger includes the anonymous writer you are criticizing.

A scorned one?

Editor:

Reference: CG-45, Motorcycle Safety, April 29.

With all due respect to the Commanding General, his position and grade, subject CG requirements are as prejudicial as any I have witnessed in 27 years of military and six years of civil service. Wearing of helmets and reflective vests has long been a standard on most military installations so we have come to accept them. Even the additional written and practical tests to obtain motorcycle operators endorsement on New Mexico drivers license is acceptable. Now my questions and comments:

What did motorcycle riders collectively do to upset the general so and deserve this harassment? Is it coincidence the general's military driver rides a two wheeler of fewer than 50ccs? Will he not be as dead if killed on his under-powered slow moving traffic safety hazard as I am if killed on my fire breathing 1000cc lightning bolt? Will unlicensed children on their mo-peds be banned from the streets of WSMR? Most important of all, will all vehicles, regardless of number of wheels, be required to pass a similar annual safety inspection?

Sometimes I am confronted with a real dilemma. Should I follow or try to pass? Will that "bomb" explode or something fall off and hit me or my vehicle? There are vehicles with one or no headlights, tail/brake lights, turn signal, slick tires, wind-

A fond farewell

As I depart Fort White Sands, I extend my sincere appreciation to each of you for your loyal and dedicated service during my command. As I have said so many times, White Sands has a special spirit. The reason for this is because White Sands has always had special people. I have never seen better professionalism anywhere, nor more dedicated, loyal workers. That is why WSMR has always been a center of excellence, and hopefully will continue to be.

I could never begin to thank you all for all you have done for me and for the Range during my time here. Your many kindnesses -- particularly these last few weeks -- will always be treasured by this Old Soldier. I leave with mixed emotions. I love this place -- the people, the Organ Mountains, this beautiful land of New Mexico, and the many friends I have made here. Still, it is time for me to go -- time for me to try new horizons.

As I depart Fort White Sands, and leave my beloved Army, be assured that I shall never forget you. I hope I have left my mark on this Range, and on each of you. The Range and each one of you have certainly left your mark on me. I leave a considerable chunk of my heart here in the shadow of the Organ Mountains.

I know you will give General and Mrs. Owens the same loyal and dedicated service that you have given me. They are great people and you will like them.

And now, I bid you a fond farewell. May God continue to bless you and this great land of ours abundantly. Continue to "be all you can be" for Fort White Sands, for our Army, and for our Nation.

shield wipers missing, no rear view mirror, broken windows, etc., can we get annual safety inspection for them too?

During the national fuel crunch some of us decided to ride a more efficient mode of transportation. Now we pay for our unwise decision through added restrictive codes. Then to seal the deal there is a new requirement for completion of a certified motorcycle safety course which apparently will not be made available on Post. Will military personnel be afforded training time to go to Holloman Air Force Base or Fort Bliss to receive this training? As a civil servant, will I be authorized training time to complete this requirement? We have all talked of inequities toward sex, race, religion, nationality or whatever, but when did motorcycle riders become one of the scorned?

McAfee clinic short doctors

McAfee Health Clinic's Table of Distribution and Allowances requires four medical officers to accomplish the mission of the Outpatient Clinic (OPC), of which three are authorized and two assigned. Until recently, William Beaumont Army Medical Center (WBAMC) had attached a Physician's Assistant (PA) to McAfee. This PA has been reassigned to Europe, and we will not get a replacement for him. As you can see the number of physicians on hand does not even meet the requirements as stated in the TDA. However, since we have a dedicated group of physicians, we have been able to provide the needed care to you in the past.

During the month of June 1986, the two medical officers assigned to the OPC will be taking their licensure tests in the State of Texas in order to meet Department of Army requirements. These tests last a week. In view of these facts, the McAfee Commander has made the hard decision of curtailing Outpatient Clinic services during the week of June 9-13 1986. Until a civilian physician is hired for the OPC, appointments will be reduced by 50 percent. All other services will be available during this period to include the 24 hour operation of the Emergency Room (ER).

WBAMC has established walk-in clinics for Pediatrics and Adult Medicine Clinic. Patients are encouraged to make use of these services and use WBAMC for routine appointments as much as possible.

The McAfee Clinic Commander and the staff are very concerned about this situation. We ask for your indulgence and want to apologize in advance for any inconvenience that this may cause you. We are in the process of requesting that a civilian Family Practice physician be hired for the Outpatient Clinic; this action requires approval from Health Services Command at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and it may take a while. If you have questions regarding this matter, please contact Capt. Hector Rosado at 678-1138.

Applications accepted

The Civilian Personnel Office has received the Army Materiel Command's (AMC) Career Intern Program Announcement. Applications are being accepted through Aug. 31, 1986 under Announcement Number AMC #1-86. This announcement is open to all Department of Army employees with competitive status (i.e., career or career conditional), reinstatement eligibles, and those eligible for appointment under special appointing authorities (i.e., severely handicapped and VRA). Competitive status is not required for entry into the intelligence career field. Applications are to be filed with the appropriate Field Offices of AMC indicated in the announcement package, not with WSMR CPO.

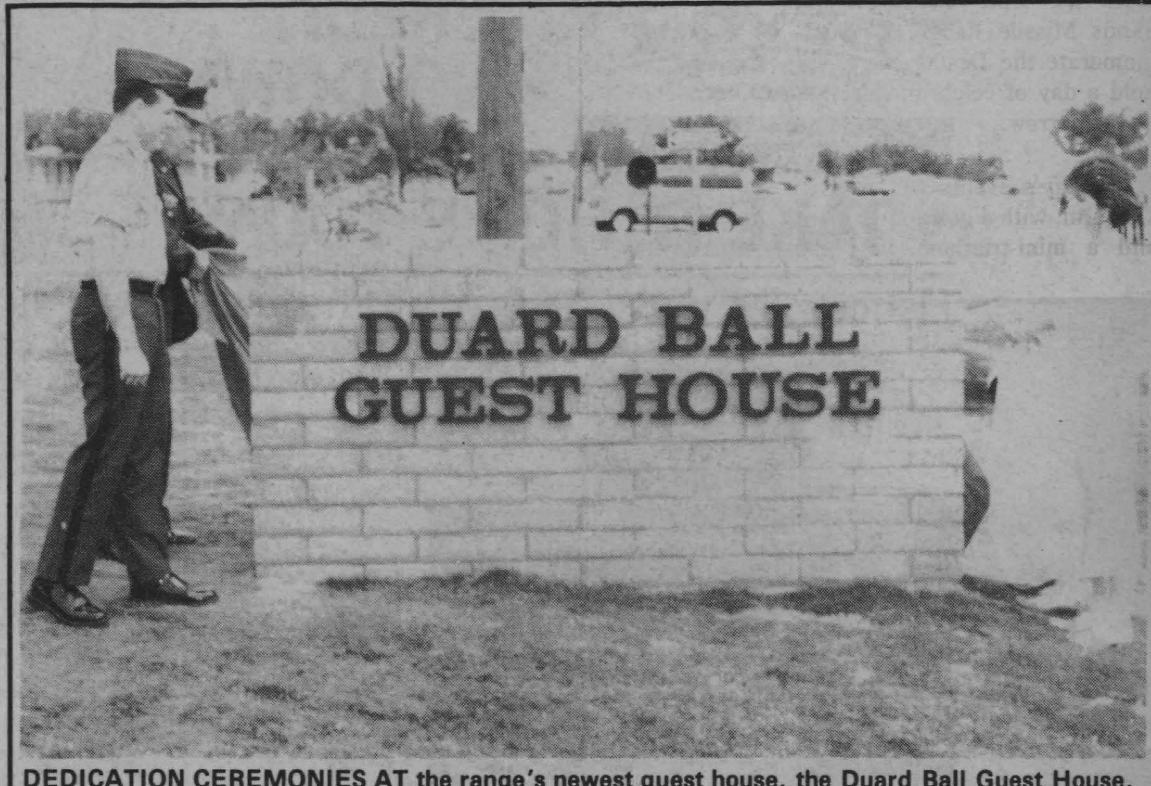

The announcement package and additional forms are available Monday in the Job Information Center, building 124, room 218, Monday and Friday, 7:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Wednesday 7:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Campaign nears end

The Annual AER Campaign is drawing near the end. July 1 is the last day to contribute to this worth while campaign.

Anyone who would like to give a donation should contact their campaign coordinator. If you are unaware who your coordinator is, contact the ACS office at 678-3933 or 678-6789. The staff will be happy to assist.

Again remember, this campaign focuses on soldiers helping fellow soldiers and any donation will be greatly appreciated.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES AT the range's newest guest house, the Duard Ball Guest House, were conducted May 30. The guest house is named in memory of Maj. Gen. Duard D. Ball, the 14th WSMR commander, who died April 6, 1986. Unveiling the sign in front of the guest house are Range Commander Maj. Gen. Niles Fulwyler and the late general's widow plus two of their children. The family members are (from left) 2nd Lt. Daniel Ball, Marion Ball and Laurie Ball. About 75 people attended the ceremony which also included an open house of the new 15-suite facility.

Work schedule memo signed

from the Civilian Personnel Office

WSMR-TEACOM Management and the National Federation of Federal Employees, Locals 158 and 2049 returned to the bargaining table during the last week of May and signed a Memorandum of Understanding regarding Compressed Work Schedules. Highlights of that agreement concerning ground rules for the work schedule follow:

EXCLUSIONS: Due to the nature of work performed, mission support, and around the clock operations, the following organizations and/or work operations will be required to remain on present work schedules:

- National Range Operations Directorate.
- Army Material Test and Evaluation Directorate.
- Personnel assigned to the variable tour.
- Personnel assigned to 3-shift, 7-day week operations.
- Security Guards.
- Firefighters.

OFF-DAYS: The designated off-day for Compressed Schedule will be Monday. The other Monday in each pay period would be an 8-hour workday. This means that any given Monday will only be an 8-hour workday and that less than a full staff will be working in the organization. Tuesday through Friday of each week will be 9-hour workdays, with a full staff available. The intent of this schedule is for all organizations that are required to interact with other organizations on post to be open for business 5 days per week.

STARTING AND ENDING TIMES: The Administrative Compressed Work Schedule will be from 7:15 to 3:45 p.m. on Mondays, 7:15 to 4:45 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, with 30 minutes scheduled lunch breaks each day. Individuals could request variations of start/end times, and Directors/Office Chiefs will have approval authority within the following parameters; Earliest start time, 6 a.m., latest ending time, 6 p.m. An employee's designated schedule may change only with further written approval.

SCHEDULE CHANGES: Tour and/or work schedule changes may occur only on a pay period basis. This is due to the fact that the statute authorizing alternative work schedules allows employees to work less than 40 hours one week without charge to leave, and to work more than 40 hours the other week without payment of overtime, as long as 80 hours are worked in the pay period. Therefore, changes for less than one pay period duration would always result in either overtime or leave charges.

TRAINING AND TDY: Most training is conducted in an 8-hour day, 5-day week format. Therefore, employees will have to revert to such a schedule to attend the training, and the change to 40-hour weeks will have to be for the entire pay period(s) encompassing the training. For example; If a 2 week training course happened to begin the second week of the pay period and end the first week of the next pay period, the employee would be required to revert to a 5, 8-hour day work week for two complete pay periods in order to attend. Similarly, TDY is normally performed on the work schedule of the temporary duty station. This means that the em-

RAM Division to investigate mental workload

by Dr. Joel H. Fernandez
RAM, ARMTE

Army Materiel Test and Evaluation Directorate (ARMTE) strives for innovative procedures for mental workload assessment of personnel employing advanced weapon systems during technical testing. The complexity and high technology being employed in modern battlefield systems have brought about a growing concern that operators may not be able to use these systems effectively. The rate and accuracy at which information is processed, decisions are made, and responses are made by the human operator are influenced by stress, sensory overload, and hostile environments. These factors can increase mental workload which results in decreased performance and therefore, directly affects system reliability.

Mental workload in weapon systems can be thought of as the extent to which the human operator is occupied or the complexity of the tasks that confront him. Can the operator handle additional tasks beyond those that are already performed? Will he be able to respond to uncertain stimuli? Often personnel are not aware of the mental workload being imposed on them or that their performance may be affected.

Human Factors Engineers within ARMTE evaluate the extent to which mental workload is imposed on the personnel associated with the weapon systems. However, there are no adequate procedures for field testing. There exists a variety of laboratory techniques for measuring mental workload, all of which have some shortcomings but are very useful for carefully conducted research in laboratories. These techniques cannot feasibly be used in the field. They require considerable expertise, instrumentation, time, and personnel. Many of these techniques are obtrusive and disrupt performance of the operators being tested.

At present there is no value which can be assigned as a measure of the mental workload imposed on a man -- no common metric for all men and for all types of tasks. There is no defined criterion, beyond which mental workload can be considered excessive. Problems of mental workload for systems in the field are resolved almost entirely by someone's opinion. This technique is used for lack of something better.

In an effort to improve the evaluation of mental workload in the field TECOM has approved funding for a methodology investigation to be conducted by the human factors group in the RAM Division of ARMTE. Also, the Department of Defense Small Business Innovation Research Program has approved funding for a small business firm to help with some of the research responsibilities. This research is directed toward the development of procedures for assessing mental workload that are relatively quick, easy, convenient, and will not disrupt ongoing activities.

The results of these procedures will correlate with established laboratory techniques that have been reasonably successful. Additionally criteria will be established for acceptable mental load similar to criteria for acceptable noise levels, radiation, etc. . . Research into the existing assessment techniques and the development of the best possible procedure for assessing operator mental workload in the field will be conducted during the next two years.

ARMTE testing with the best!

Both Houses of the Congress were in recess until June 3, so our report of this week is a bit slim.

Tax Reform

Still the most volatile issue for the federal employee. With the Senate back in session, the bill will be brought to the Senate floor for a vote.

Notwithstanding the feelings of the Finance Committee, there will be some rhetorical words on the fairness of the bill and the vote will not be as easy as one might think. Since the Senate has returned to session, the only words that have been heard on radio and TV, or read in the media has focused on "Save the IRA."

No words on the 2.5 million federal employees!

Some of the sages in Washington foretell that the real meat of the changes will be in the House and Senate conference committee. Conference committee is not the best vehicle for this bill as far as the Federal employee is concerned. The process of conference committee is to some degree mysterious. No one knows who will be on the committee, they do not meet in regular session, and the conference report could be directed by as few as three people from both houses.

Folks, the ball is on our court

if we want this legislation to protect us and not cost us. For fear of sounding redundant, a 22 cent stamp and 15 minutes of your time is a very small price to pay.

There is still no projections on an effective date for this legislation. Best guesses are for Jan. 1, 1987. We can only suggest that if you are eligible for retirement now, follow the progress of the bill, so you can make a sound decision at the right time. The only magic information we can give is that you must receive retirement pay before the date of the legislation. To be able to do this you must leave service by the third day of the month in which you retire.

FMA National Headquarters in Washington D.C. has assured FMA members that they will give the "heads-up" word on the effective date so that they can respond quickly.

Smoking versus Non-Smoking

In the column of May 2, 1986, we reported that House Bill HR 4546 had been introduced which would require the publication of regulations creating "designated smoking areas" in all federal buildings. A companion bill S 1937 was introduced in the Senate. There has been some movement in government circles in regard to smoking.

GSA has proposed tough smoking restrictions in nearly 7,000 government buildings it own or leases in the country.

The regulations as proposed were published in the Federal Register for May 22, 1986. The regulations seek to prohibit smoking in general office space, auditoriums, conference rooms and classrooms, elevators, corridors, lobbies and restrooms, medical care facilities, libraries and hazardous areas.

I don't think they missed a spot.

The GSA Administrator describes the proposed rules as "a positive step toward the 'total wellness' of federal employees." Stressing the hazards of smoking, he said it is responsible for 340,000 premature deaths each year and over $23 billion in direct medical costs in 1984 alone.

The proposed regulations have a 60-day comment period ending July 21, 1986. The ban is expected to go into effect sometime in the fall. A GSA spokesperson stated that GSA-managed buildings house 887,000 federal workers. Military facilities are not affected by the regulations, the one big exception being the Pentagon, which is a GSA building.

The Federal Register announcement also states that "nothing in these regulations precludes an agency from establishing more stringent guidelines. The Merit Systems Protection Board, for example, recently put into effect a total smoking ban.

The rules also state that agencies will not be required to spend any money for structural changes "to accommodate the preferences of non-smoking employees."

A sign of the times....

civilian workforce, contact Chapter 132, Federal Manager's Association, P.O. Box 250, WSMR, N.M. 88002. Questions concerning membership in the FMA should be referred to Ray Cano by calling 678-1447. A fitting memorial

Two years ago White Sands Missile Range began a project to raise $10,000 for the purchase of electronic carillons and the improvement of the chapel tower. The carillons and tower were to serve as a fitting memorial to all those Americans who gave their lives for this nation, and for human freedom. As citizens of this great nation, it is most fitting that we remember those who gave their all that we might enjoy certain rights and liberties.

At the end of this two-year period, we have raised $3,612.61. In an effort to complete this project within a reasonable period of time, another carillon unit has been selected that costs $5,050. That would put us within $1,500 of having sufficient funds.

The burden of raising the money for this project has fallen on the WSMR Chapel congregations, and you have accomplished a lot in raising over $3,000. Just $1,500 more and the WSMR community will not only realize the blessings from the beautiful chimes that are played for religious services, weddings and on many other special occasions, but there will also be a fitting reminder of the "gift of love" offered to us by many of our fellow Americans.

As I depart White Sands, I am making a special contribution to this project. It is my hope that you will see this project through to completion. As in the past, I ask your support one more time for something I feel is important to us as a community, and to us as Americans.

Thank you,

Lincoln Town bloody battleground of Old West

by Jim Eckles

On April 28, 1881, Bob Olinger went to eat dinner at the Wortley Hotel in Lincoln, N.M. While he ate he heard two shots come from the direction of the Lincoln County courthouse which was across the street and west of the hotel. Olinger jumped up and ran to the gate in the courthouse yard. As he entered the yard, he heard his name called from a second story window. He looked up and Billy the Kid killed him with a blast from a shotgun.

Olinger was a deputy sheriff in Lincoln and was helping guard Billy the Kid. The Kid was being held in the courthouse awaiting his execution by hanging on May 13, 1881. The shots Olinger heard were from Billy shooting the other guard J.W. Bell. This escape by Billy the Kid started the long manhunt which ended when Sheriff Pat Garrett gunned down the Kid on July 13 at Fort Sumner, N.M.

Billy the Kid's daring escape from Lincoln, N.M. is just one event in what is now called the "Lincoln County War," one of the bloodiest chapters in the history of the old West. During a period of several years two powerful factions battled for economic control of the county. Many men died on either side and legends rose out of the turmoil.

Today, visitors to Lincoln can stand on the spot where Bob Olinger heard Billy the Kid call his name. There is a small marble marker on the east side of the courthouse showing exactly where Olinger died.

It is peaceful in Lincoln now as only 60 people live in the village. It also is an historic district commemorating the events in the Lincoln County War. Visitors can spend an afternoon walking the streets and going through the buildings frequented by the likes of Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid. During the summer, every year, the Lincoln Pageant and Festival Committee holds a pageant in town which features reenactments of the important events of the war.

The thing my wife and I like most about Lincoln is the Wortley Hotel. The Wortley burned down after the Lincoln County War but was rebuilt on the original foundations. It has eight rooms, each with a double brass bed, ceiling fan, antique furnishings and a private bath. It also has a dining room which serves a limited menu of good food.

It does not have telephones, television, a swimming pool or air conditioning. In other words, there are no screaming cop shows or screaming children to contend with. The peace and quiet are most enjoyable. On top of that, the three rooms on the south open onto a large shaded porch which is furnished with old rocking chairs.

In the past the Wortley has been run by a concessionaire hired by the state. According to some of the townspeople it was not a very successful arrangement. Recently, the town's pageant and festivals group took over management of the hotel and is trying to make it a first class operation. Currently, much of the work done at the hotel is done by community volunteers. The group has even managed to get prominent citizens of Roswell to volunteer to drive out to Lincoln and wash dishes.

The rate for two people at the Wortley is $33.92, tax included. Breakfast is served in the dining room from 7 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., lunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinner from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Between the lunch and dinner hours hungry visitors can order from the regular menu. Reservations can be made by calling (505) 853-4500.

There is more to do in the area than just wander around Lincoln. We used Lincoln as a home base to do a little exploring. An hour away is the Roswell Museum and Art Center. The facility features all kinds of displays on Robert Goddard, the father of modern rocketry. The displays include many of Goddard's rockets and his complete workshop from the ranch where he conducted his experiments outside of Roswell. If you are at all interested in the history of rockets, this place is a must.

Also in the museum are very good displays of Spanish, Indian and Anglo culture. Finally, a large part of the building is devoted to art. There are two rooms filled with Peter Hurd paintings and other rooms contain many interesting pieces.

If you like the outdoors, the Capitan Mountains are immediately north of Lincoln and offer opportunities to explore by four-wheel drive vehicle, horse, or foot. Once on top of the range the views are extensive to the north and south and the 9-10,000 foot elevation means lots of tall pines and grassy meadows.

In the same vein, the town of Capitan is only a few miles west of Lincoln. In Capitan you will find the Smokey Bear Museum and State Park. The original Smokey Bear was found as a cub in the Capitan Mountains after a large forest fire devastated part of the forest. He is now buried in the small park which also has a visitors center detailing the famous career of Smokey.

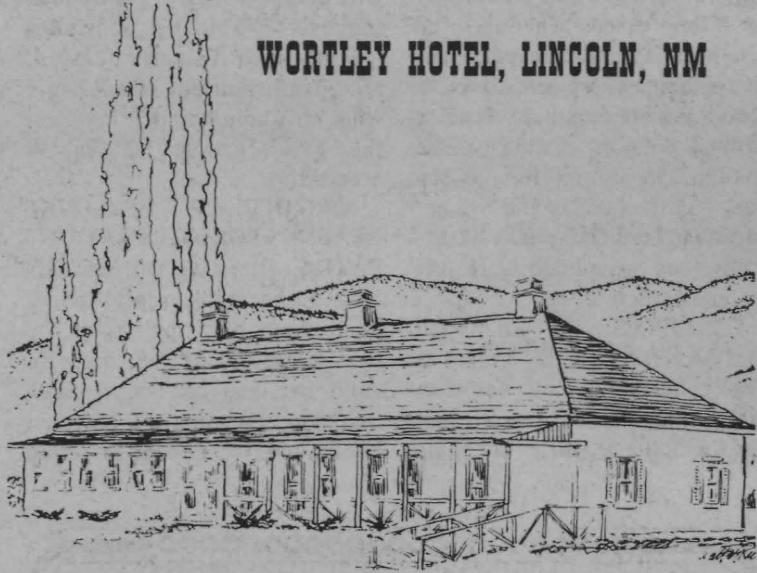

While staying at the Wortley there is nothing which says you have to eat there. Just down the road to the east is Tinnie and the Silver Dollar Restaurant. The Silver Dollar used to be an Anderson restaurant like the Double Eagle in Mesilla but has new owners. The place has been completely remodeled and the new owners are striving to make it one of the top eating establishments in the Southwest. That might tell you something about the prices. The typical entree runs in the $15 to $18 dollar range. The food is very good but not for those short of cash or plastic.

The Silver Dollar celebrates its grand opening this weekend. If you go for dinner, you will see Bill Gross from Public Affairs playing with the Michael Francis Jazz Quintet. The quintet will be accompanying jazz singer Elaine Hamilton in the lounge.

Lincoln is certainly a peaceful little town for those who want to get away from it all and a historic place for those who want to learn a little about the old West.

Work schedule

ployee's work schedule should be changed for the entire pay period(s) encompassing the TDY, PROVIDED the TDY requirement is known in advance. When TDY requirements are not known in advance, or if the TDY is performed in two or three day increments which all occur on the employee's normally scheduled work days, the one hour per day in such instances can either be credited as work performed if the employee does actually perform duties, or in some instances be excused in order to avoid undue interruption of the employee's work schedule.

HOLIDAYS: Holidays falling on an employee's scheduled 9-hour work day will be credited as 9 hours of holiday pay, and the employee will either be excused or receive premium pay if required to work. Monday holidays will be treated as follows: Since Monday will always be an 8-hour day for Compressed Schedule, the schedule will be changed for those employees who have a scheduled off day that coincides with a Monday holiday. This change will be only for the pay period of the holiday and will ensure that the holiday falls on the employees' scheduled work day instead of their off day.

EXAMPLES: (1) When the first Monday of a pay period is also a holiday, employees normally scheduled to be off that day will have their schedule changed to reflect the second Monday as the off day that pay period. (2) When the second Monday of a pay period is also a holiday, employees normally scheduled to be off that day will have their schedule changed to reflect the first Monday as the off day that pay period.

RESULT: All employees working Compressed Schedule will be off both Mondays of any pay period with a Monday holiday. (Unless required to work, in which case either holiday premium pay or overtime will be paid).

PARTICIPATION AND TRANSPORTATION: The compressed work schedule will be the normal tour of duty for those organizations not excluded. This will not preclude individual employees from requesting temporary or permanent exemption from participation for appropriate personal reasons. Directors/Office Chiefs may approve such requests. WSMR bus schedules will adjust to customer demand, and if sufficient bus riders begin working Compressed Schedules, the bus schedule will adjust accordingly.

APPROPRIATE PERSONAL REASONS FOR NOT PARTICIPATING: Directors/Office Chiefs have authority to exempt individuals from participating in the Compressed Work Schedule for valid personal hardships. Such hardships include, but may not be limited to: dependent child care difficulties, health reasons, unusual personal hardship resulting from transportation difficulties, and personal off-duty educational pursuits which would be adversely affected by participating in a compressed Work Schedule. Employee requests for exemption due to personal hardship will be submitted in writing through the immediate supervisor to the Director/Office Chief. The immediate supervisor will add a written statement recommending approval or disapproval before forwarding the request to the Director/Office

Chief for decision. Individual employees who do not receive an exemption as requested may request a review of that decision through the parties' negotiated grievance procedure outlined in Article 11 of both agreements.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The pay period beginning June 15 1986 will be the earliest date employees and/or organizations may begin 5/4/9 Compressed Work Schedules as outlined above. Individual additions or changes may only be effected at the beginning of subsequent pay periods. WSMR-TEACOM organizations previously authorized to work the 5-4/9 Compressed Work Schedule on a voluntary basis will comply with the provisions of this agreement effective with the pay period beginning June 15, 1986.

Further guidance is planned for the future through TIPS to supervisors and Roadrunners to the work force. Questions should be addressed to servicing Employee Relations Specialists in the Management Employee Relations Division of Civilian Personnel Office.

$5,000 vet scholarship fund open

EL PASO, TX. -- Dickshire Distributing has announced that applications are now available for the 1986 Coors Veterans' Memorial Scholarship Fund which provides more than $50,000 to the sons and daughters of American veterans.

For the second year, Coors and Coors distributors will award a minimum of 100 scholarships, with a maximum value of $5,000 each, to eligible students who have successfully completed their freshman year of college. The scholarships will allow students to complete the final three years of undergraduate studies.

"The program was designed to salute American veterans and express our company's appreciation for their service and sacrifices," said Alan Kahn, President of Dickshire Distributing. In 1985, Coors awarded 114 scholarships totalling $501,000 to applicants in 49 states and Puerto Rico.

SPORTS

Racin'

Navy's 40th anniversary triathlon Saturday

by Uncle Fredward

Saturday is the Navy's 40th anniversary and as part of the many festivities a triathlon is being held. It will begin at 7:30 a.m. at Bell Gym. The event will consist of a 3 mile run, 10 mile bike ride and a 400 meter swim. The swim will be at the NCO/Enlisted club pool. You may enter the race as an individual or as a team with one or two other people.

Prizes will be awarded to the first overall male, female and team finishers. Medals will be awarded to winners in the following age groups: (male) 19-under, 20-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-over; (female) 29-under, 30-over. Entry fees are: before June 7 - $1, race day - $2. Team entry-$3, race day - $4.

This event is open to all military, civilian employees, contractor personnel and their families. Even if your family is not participating, bring them out to cheer you on. In the past the post triathlons have been well planned and participation was good. Most important, the competition was hot and heavy.

Because there is a team category, I hope to see several teams participating. I expect to see a very strong Navy team and an equally strong Army team. TRASANA has some very capable triathletic "animals" who are tough to beat. Not to be left behind in the dust, TE has always done very well. Their strongest, "Tough" Tommy P has always placed, and Bill Bennett is another accomplished triathlete (when he doesn't have a flat). Will Bobby Nichols be there also? I hope so since he is a very fast runner.

DP's fastest, Chaplain Messinger, was trying to put a team together. I'm sure they will be competitive. CD has some accomplished athletes who would be good on a team; Ruth Channel or Amber Hittle are good swimmers. Diane "Fast Lady" Brock has won her age group in many runs. Gene DeArmond is a strong triathlete and could do the biking portion.

Our local dental clinic has "Doc" Jim Wallman. He hasn't been riding very long, but has gotten very strong on the bike in a short time. He'll be there for sure, and because he is new and unknown to the locals, is not feared. But you guys in the 30-39 age group you better look out. The "Doc" is fast!

Competition from ASL is strongest in the ladies division with Carol Rogers. Carol is an excellent runner, very fast and smooth swimmer and her biking skills are improving. CPO has Armando Uranga who has competed here before. DE's Don Shepan has been training very hard this season and should do well Saturday. PA's Jim Eckles has been a strong contender and I hope to see him out here. And last but not least, is the former Fatman from PL who is always waaaay in the back. The fatman will be riding his "Bud Light" special but not very fast. It's too bad PL doesn't have more participants. It must rely on this one slow poke to represent them. I know a few runners (who are fast) in PL and would like to see them at some of these races. Maybe next time.

Well that's the line up for this triathlon. The racin' will be hot and heavy and this course lends itself for spectator viewing. For more information call Chaplain Messinger at 678-2615, or Mrs. Sexton, 678-6121.

Don't forget there will be other activities during the whole day, such as a chili cookoff, the Navy skydiving team, food booths, etc. So come out early for the triathlon and stay the whole day. See you Saturday.

Tales of two-wheelers

Motorcycling can be a deadly serious gamble

by Donna Bolinger
American Forces
Information Service

Richard Corcoran, a Navy engineer assigned to the supply ship USS Detroit, homeported in Norfolk, Va., bought a motorcycle because it was inexpensive to operate.

Yet, that motorcycle cost him far more than he could ever imagine. Among the costs: months in a hospital bed, wondering if he'd ever have full use of his legs again.

The 24-year-old Corcoran said he had loved the feel of the wind rushing past him, the freedom a motorcycle had offered.

Now, those images have faded. They've been replaced with memories of horror -- the sheer terror of being forced off the road by another vehicle, losing control of his cycle, crashing against a concrete road divider, and being flipped over the wall into the path of oncoming traffic.

"I remember seeing nothing but headlights, all coming at me," he said. He was hit by an oncoming car, which thrust him back against the concrete dividing wall.

"It was right then and there, as I was laying against the wall, that I knew I'd never get on a motorcycle again -- ever," he said.

Corcoran received extensive leg injuries. But three months after his accident, he was optimistic he would recover -- maybe even completely -- within the next few months.

Two soldiers assigned to a signal battalion at Fort Campbell, Ky., weren't so lucky.

After pulling to the side of a post roadway, they were struck from behind by a pickup truck, which pushed them for about 80 feet before coming to rest at a nearby intersection.

The 20-year-old female private first class, the passenger, was killed instantly. Her 22-year-old fiance fared only slightly better; he was left with severe neck, back and leg injuries.

After a lengthy hospitalization at Fort Campbell's Blanchfield Army Community Hospital, he was given a medical discharge, his dreams of an upcoming marriage and a military career destroyed.

Motorcycle enthusiasts often point to safety precautions the victims of accidents like these might have taken to avoid tragedy.

However, the story of a 21-year-old Marine Corps corporal stationed at a Marine aviation group in Pennsylvania demonstrates that no matter how controlled a situation, a motorcyclist's safety is ultimately out of his hands.

Riding along a roadway he used every day between his home and duty station, the corporal encountered an unexpected hazard -- a freshly paved, but not yet smoothed, road surface.

He lost control of the cycle when, as he was rounding a turn in the road, the front tire hit a groove between the lanes. He was killed when he crashed through a fence in a residential neighborhood.

The story is particularly disturbing because it weakens many of the arguments about motorcycle safety offered by operators:

• "I've attended a motorcycle safety course." The corporal was known throughout his command as one of its most safety conscious motorcyclists. He never missed his command-sponsored motorcycle safety updates and only two months earlier had completed its motorcycle safety course. Ironically, earlier during the night he was killed, he had shown his riding partner a magazine article about a world-class motorcyclist who had been killed in a "freak" riding accident.

• "I'm familiar with the roadway." The corporal was familiar with it -- he traveled the road every day. However, he hadn't anticipated the hazard created by a partial road resurfacing.

• "I always wear a helmet and protective clothing." The corporal was wearing a helmet, leather jacket and long pants -- none of which protected him from fatal injuries.

• "I always obey posted speed limits." The corporal was riding well below the 55 mile per hour speed limit when the accident occurred.

"The problem with motorcycles," Corcoran concluded from his hospital bed at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital, "is that no matter how many things you have going for you, they all have a way of working against you when you're involved in an accident. When you're on a cycle, it's you and the road -- nothing in between."

"I know I never listened myself (to warnings about motorcycle safety)" he said. "But for those who ride, all I can say is, you really have to know when to ride your cycle. And you really have to know when not to -- like when you'll be in heavy traffic, or when it's raining."

"Sometimes it's just a lot safer to take a taxi and leave your motorcycle parked at home."

Discipline is key issue in military fraternization

by Donna Bolinger
American Forces
Information Service

A Navy officer becomes romantically involved with, and later begins living with, an enlisted woman in his command.

An Air Force noncommissioned officer organizes a base softball team to play in a local city league. The team's star pitcher is an airman from another wing. When the airman receives a special duty assignment for the day of a big game, the NCO urges his buddy, the airman's immediate supervisor, to reassign the detail.

An Army battalion commander identifies an up and coming junior officer in his command. He singles that officer out from among his peers for discussions at battalion social events and frequently invites him -- but no other junior officer -- to attend brigade and division staff meetings.

A Marine Corps drill sergeant invites a female trainee from another battalion on a dinner date at an exclusive off-base restaurant.

Fraternization has been taboo in the U.S. military since the American Revolution. Gen. George Washington stood firmly on the European tradition that an officer does not gamble, borrow money from, or drink with enlisted soldiers on an individual basis.

The reasons:

- to protect enlisted service members from being taken advantage of by officers, and
- to ensure that officers avoid relationships that bring -- or have the potential of bringing -- their

Renovation work to begin

The long awaited work on the Post Library Extension and the renovation of the Post Education Center is scheduled to begin next week. As the work progresses, there may be some disruption objectivity, fairness and leadership into question.

Today, the Manual for Courts-Martial refers to fraternization as an inappropriate relationship between a commissioned officer or warrant officer and an enlisted service member.

But throughout the military, the term is used loosely to describe any association between a senior and junior service member, officer or enlisted, that undermines, or has the potential to undermine, a critical military requirement -- discipline. The issue extends far beyond relationships between men and women.

"Discipline requires an immediate, loyal, cheerful compliance with the lawful orders of the superior," according to the first edition of the Officer's Guide, published in 1930. "Experience shows that these objects cannot be readily attained when there is undue familiarity between the officer and those under his command."

More than 50 years later, the U.S. military has changed significantly, perhaps most obviously with a dramatic increase in the number of women in the military.

The military policy on fraternization has been debated, examined and reexamined -- but remains essentially unchanged.

"Fraternization is a complex issue," explained Navy Lt. Scott Wilson of the Naval Military Personnel Command, "because it involved personal relationships between military members that, outside the military, are commonplace and totally acceptable."

Air Force Lt. Col. Lee Johnson, whose office rewrote the Air Force policy on fraternization, explained why the military must have standards not necessarily required of civilians.

In the military, there's a need to clearly distinguish between who's the leader and who's being led," he said. "Once that's compromised, a leader loses his ability to operate effectively, particularly in combat."

"The real issue here has always been discipline," agreed Army spokesman Lt. Col. Ronald Wolfe. "It requires a certain amount of distance to maintain that level of authority a commander needs when giving difficult orders -- particularly in life and death situations."

Unfortunately, fraternization often isn't a clearly defined issue. It's sometimes subject to interpretation -- not only by those involved in an association or relationship, but also by those outside the relationship.

At the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., Lt. Cmdr. Kevin McMahons teaches midshipmen that the perceptions of others, even if incorrect, can still compromise leadership.

"We try to impress on them (midshipmen) the need to avoid situations that give even the appearance of fraternization," he said.

"Once you find yourself having to stand back and explain what your relationship is not, you've already compromised your integrity ... and lost the troops."

Land-sea navigation system due in late 1980's

by Donna Bolinger
American Forces
Information Service

A foot soldier lost in the jungle pulls a small box out of his radio backpack, presses a few buttons and pinpoints his location. The captain on the bridge of a ship or a fighter pilot flying at 600 miles an hour use the same system to determine position and speed, and to calculate headings to the target.

These scenarios could soon become everyday military operations. The NAVSTAR Global Positioning System, a space-based navigation system designed to provide exact position and navigation information, could be operational by the late 1980s.

According to Air Force Col. Phillip Baker, DoD project coordinator, the system will have three basic components: a system of 18 satellites, each circling the earth every 12 hours; ground-based control and monitoring stations; and user sets, adapted for vehicle, aircraft, ship or personal use.

When activated, these user sets will automatically process signals from four of the satellites in view from a particular location. Within seconds, the sets will provide exact latitude, longitude, elevation and time information — anywhere in the world.

They also will allow foot soldiers, warship skippers, fighter pilots, submarines and tank commanders to pinpoint any village, island, enemy airfield or bridge...and the heading to that destination or target, if requested.

Defense officials say the system could revolutionize military operations. The potential applications for such a system — expected to be 10 times more accurate than any existing radio navigation system — are almost limitless.

The Global Positioning System will enhance weapons systems to an unprecedented accuracy. It will provide for precision targeting, enhanced reconnaissance and mapping operations, and more thorough satellite, submarine and missile tracking.

Already, seven research and development satellites are in operation. Twenty-one operational satellites, three of which will serve as backups, were expected to be launched during upcoming space shuttle missions. However, possible delays in that program could lead defense officials to consider other launch methods.

The system's ground control center is being established at the Consolidated Space Operations Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. A monitoring station is already operating in Hawaii, and another, in Colorado Springs, will soon follow. In addition, monitoring and control stations are up and running at Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean; Ascension Island in the South Atlantic Ocean; and Kwajalein Atoll in the Pacific Ocean's Marshall Islands.

Three hundred user sets — the first of some 27,000 DoD expects to purchase by the late 1990s — will come off the production line in 1987.

The sets will come in three models. A five-channel model will be used on high-performance aircraft and ships and a two-channel model on Army helicopters.

One-channel user sets will be used on land vehicles such as tanks and for personal use. Baker said scientists at the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency are working on the technology that eventually could reduce the size of the one-channel model to that of a cigarette pack.

Although the Global Positioning System is being developed for military use, it has the potential to provide navigation, position and time information to civilian users as well.

The system offers promise in land surveying and oil exploration, as well as for commercial ships, yachts ... even ordinary motorists.

"By the year 2000, possibly sooner, we could be seeing many thousands of people enjoying the benefits of Global Positioning System," according to one defense contractor involved with the system.

"A receiver might cost about the same as a car's air conditioner, provide exact position information at the push of a button, and use less power than a flashlight."
